4. Winner Selection

At or near the start of each game, the on-air announcer on the WESTWOOD ONE, ESPN, IMG, or TOUCHDOWN RADIO NATIONAL RADIO BROADCAST will announce the official game time temperature for purposes of this Contest.

For indoor stadiums the official game time temperature for the purpose of this contest is the temperature inside the stadium, which is the temperature on the field of play. Sponsor will determine the first entrants by order of submission who correctly guess the official temperature announced on-air. Depending on the actual temperature, Sponsor will select the corresponding number of winners (ex: the first 10 persons who submit the correct temperature per game, will be declared winners). For Contest purposes, "game-time temperature" refers to the temperature revealed on THE national radio BROADCAST OF THE GAME and will be the only figure used to determine the accuracy of your prediction.

Sponsor's game clock will determine whether entries have been timely received. Winners will be selected and notified on a weekly basis.
